The Upper Danube

Three glittering capital cities are the draw for cruising this section of the Danube - Vienna, Budapest and Bratislava. Guests can cruise the UNESCO-listed Wachau Valley and visit the German cities of Passau and Regensburg - both offering historic charm in spades.

Buda Castle, Hungary

The Lower Danube

A journey along the Lower Danube will mix scenic cruising with immersive time ashore. There are chances to sail through the extraordinary Iron Gates Gorge, step foot in Hungary, Croatia, Serbia, Bulgaria and Romania, see the wildlife of the Danube Delta and witness the post-war rebuilding of Vukovar in Croatia. Plus, Fred. Olsen River Cruises take you to where the Danube meets the Black Sea, rarely visited by river ships.

The Moselle

The Moselle is dotted with picturesque towns, imposing castles and scene-stealing vineyards of the famed Riesling wine region. Some parts of the river are size-restricted too, so guests won't see many river ships taking this route - in fact, Fred. Olsen River Cruises' Brabant is one of a tiny number of ships sailing into Luxembourg in 2020.

"The food on board Brabant was some of the best we have had on any of our previous river or ocean cruises."

The Main

The Main is characterised by its quaint towns and the gastronomic treats you'll find ashore, such as the smoked beer of beautiful brewing town, Bamberg. Fred. Olsen River Cruises take in the astounding 106-mile Main-Danube canal, connecting two of Europe's most significant rivers in a miracle of navigational determination.
